Clackamas Repertory Theatre launches children's theater series at Clackamas Community College in Oregon City

Wing%20It012-X2.jpg
Jennifer Whitten (from left), James Sharinghousen and Aislin Courtis will perform in the Clackamas Repertory Theatre's production of "Wing It" on Oct. 4 at Clackamas Community College in Oregon City. (Travis Nodurft)

Special to The Oregonian By Special to The Oregonian

Follow on Twitter
on September 22, 2014 at 10:45 AM

Clackamas Repertory Theatre is launching a new series of productions for children this fall.

"Wing It" premieres at 10:30 a.m. Thursday, Oct. 4, in the Osterman Theatre at Clackamas Community College.

"Wing It," created for children from 2 to 8 years old, is developed and directed by Travis Nodurft, Clackamas Rep company member, professional clown and Oregon City sixth-grade teacher. The shows are lively and participatory, and kids will have fun helping five silly creatures get out of fixes when they misbehave and learn life lessons.

Each performance will be a new story, but shows will begin with the children singing and dancing to the same song. Amid much laughter and more than a little yelling, Chirp the Cricket, Luna the Owl, Honey the Bee, Berry the Fruit Fly and Scentsy the Skunk, will eventually solve the problem of the day.

The grand finale will be a talent show in which the children are invited onto the stage to sing a song, recite a poem or tell a joke.

Shows are scheduled at 10:30 a.m. on Dec. 6, Feb. 14, April 11 and June 13. Admission is a suggested $5 donation at the door.

For more information, visit the Clackamas Repertory Theatre website or call 503-594-6047.

-- Janet Paulson, public information officer, Clackamas Community College

© 2014 OregonLive.com. All rights reserved.